About the Organisation:

LexQuest Foundation

LexQuest Foundation is an independent, non-profit law and policy think tank, striving to develop effective solutions to public policy challenges.

At the core of our vision, is the idea of a proactive citizenry, and to endorse the same, we actively seek engagement with students and professionals to make policy formulation a more democratic process. Through the Foundation's varied initiatives in the law and policy arena, we are carving out a consolidated space for policy awareness, ideation, deliberation, and innovation.

We conduct policy research, training and project-specific consultations for effective policymaking, independently and in collaboration with the government as well as private entities. Through our multidisciplinary research initiatives and programs, we intend to reach out to the masses to acknowledge and share their insights, so that together we can find solutions to some of the most pressing issues that we, as Legal Systems, Democracies and Countries, face today.

Symposium on Public Policy

Theme:

Urbanisation and Environmental Policies

Overview:

LexQuest Foundation is organizing an immersive one-day public policy symposium, for students and young professionals.

The Symposium aims to reflect on the environmental policies and analyze their impact concerning the contemporary urban growth landscape of our country. The discussions and presentations will focus on the need to better the present legislative framework and to fill the prevalent policy gaps.

This Program will bring together students and professionals from diverse backgrounds, with a keen interest and experience in the field of Environment, Law and Public Policy. In the company of field experts, the participants will gain perspective about the existing policy landscape besides getting an opportunity to be a part of a high profile policy discourse.

The recommendations put forth by experts and participants will be collated into a Working Document on Urbanisation and Environmental Policies, and will be presented to the relevant ministries and stakeholders.

Kindly note that this is not a compulsory requirement to attend the event.

What is a Policy Brief?

A Policy Brief is a summary of a particular issue, the options to deal with it, and some recommendations on optimal solutions. It could be aimed at policymakers and other stakeholders interested in formulating and influencing policy.

The audience for a Policy Brief may not be interested in the research conducted to produce the evidence but are highly interested to know the author's perspective on the problem and potential solutions based on the evidence.

The Policy Brief is thus an action-oriented tool. As such the brief must provide arguments based on what is happening in practice with a particular policy and propose recommendations that seem realistic to the target audience.

A Policy Brief could be structured in the following way:

Title: A good title quickly communicates the contents of the brief in a memorable way.

Executive Summary/Abstract: This section is often one to two paragraphs long; it includes an overview of the problem and the proposed policy action.

Context or Scope of Problem: This section communicates the importance of the problem and aims to convince the reader of the necessity of policy action.

Policy Alternatives: This section discusses the current policy approach and explains proposed options. It should be accurate while convincing the reader why the policy action proposed in the brief is the most desirable.

Policy Recommendations: This section contains the most detailed explanation of the concrete steps to be taken to address the policy issue.

Consulted or Recommended Sources: These should be reliable sources that you have used throughout your brief to guide your policy discussion and recommendations.

Suggestive Indicators for the Policy Brief:

- Environment and Urban Planning
- Environment and Migrant Population in Cities
- Environment and Slum Dwellers
- Increase in Vehicular Emission
- Urban Congestion and Noise Pollution
- Degradation of Air Quality
- Depletion of Water Resources

- Segregation of Waste

Note:

The aforementioned is not a list of topics; the indicators have been mentioned to help you choose a topic for your Policy Brief. Participants are free to come up with a Policy Brief on any issue that falls under the Theme of the Program, i.e., Urbanisation and Environmental Policies.
